Great Jazz January 18, 2013

From ROSIE

Format:MP3-Download

Yes, this is jazz! Tom Timmler, tenor sax: Not just a tribute to all the important companions of his life, but dedication, which is what "dedication" also means, to jazz as such. And with an expressiveness and authenticity of a very special kind. His way. He weaves a tapestry of sound with a "goose bump potency", in other words, simply enchanting. Sometimes he is tender and seductive with downright erotic characteristics, sometimes profound, which is always the case, or slender and light-footed virtuoso without any frills or compromises. Wonderful voice leading! An aesthetic delight! Of course he stands by his roots, which have also given him wings on this CD (John Coltrane). Now he takes off and surpasses himself, presenting a mature work that reveals new beauties and subtleties with every listen. His musical accompanists are also remarkable: Tilman Günther, piano; German Klaiber, acoustic bass; Matthias Daneck, drums: absolutely appropriate and impressive. A treasure chest of jazz! Tom Timmler! Definitely get it! No, I'm not an "expert", but I love jazz. And that's enough

Response

Very successful thing! Grooves well, sounds good and what impresses me the most is your tenor sound!
Well done and great respect!!!
I am not a "Jazzplayer" but definitely a Coltrane lover..... and I can only say powerful tenor sound, finely constructed, sensitive solos, beautiful compositions and a very good accompanying band. This is of a high, international standard.

Your Trane is really arrived !!!

...And with saxophonist Tom Timmler, who has been a teacher in the Dreisamstadt for a long time, the recently released quartet album "Dedication" is a first-class tribute from the Black Forest to the spiritual world of John Coltrane...
